

Monroe Harbor

where sailors who want to really sail want to be

Monroe has long been the harbor most closely identified with Chicago sailing. Here's why:

Access to the Chicago sailing community

Monroe is a very sailor-friendly place to congregate, share experiences and get together for after-sail socializing. Columbia and Chicago yacht clubs offer sailing programs, club racing and organized cruising opportunities. Monroe is the offshore racing center on Lake Michigan, hosting not only the annual Race to Mackinac Island, but also the NOOD, VERVE and numerous smaller offshore regattas.

Ultimate proximity to all that's happening near lakefront Chicago

- Walk across Lake Shore Drive to everything that's happening along the lakefront at Grant Maggie Daley and Millennium Parks. You're five minutes from the Blues Fest, Jazz Fest, Taste of Chicago, Lollapalooza and all the concerts on the green at Pritzker Pavilion.
- Rent a Divvy bike at the harbor entrance for access to miles of bike paths along the lake. A short walk or bike ride brings you to the Art Institute, the Museum Campus, Millennium and Maggie Daley Parks, Chicago's River Walk, Navy Pier and all the restaurants and attractions downtown Chicago has to offer.
- Invite friends to watch Navy Pier fireworks from your boat Wednesday and Saturday nights.

Privacy unmatched by any other Chicago harbor

Forget about docks lined with wading pools and teenagers playing hip-hop for the neighborhood, because there are no docks. Every boat is on its own mooring, well apart from other boats, with complimentary tender service to your boat. Open your front hatch and feel the lake breeze, because your boat always turns gently into the wind. Just a hundred yards offshore, in one of the most picturesque harbors in America, with Buckingham fountain and the Chicago skyline in the background, you'll experience gorgeous sunsets, moonlit evenings and the magical feeling of escaping to your own private sanctuary.

Where Beautiful Boats Want to Be

Beautiful classic design sailing vessels tend to look their best in settings like Monroe Harbor where their low freeboard, slender sheer lines and graceful overhangs seem to invite appreciative attention. At least that's where their owners like to harbor them. Along with our own small fleet of classic yachts, you'll find dozens of eye-catching classics in Monroe. Whether you're looking for an impeccable 1972 Hinckley Bermuda 40 or brand new high end classic designs like the Morris 36, Monroe Harbor is where you'll find them. In fact, you'll find them neighboring our own.

We have eight Monroe Harbor yachts, ranging from 27 to 42 feet. If you're a sailor who likes to really sail, we hope you'll be on one of them this summer!. Contact us now for details.
